I. Course Description

Living in the Information Age will examine information technologies with particular emphasis on social and mobile media. In particular, this course will examine how digital and mobile technologies are used by the Millennial Generation and with what effects. The goal of the course is to understand how the communication and information technologies evolve and the cultural, economic, political and social implications of such technologies for society.

II. Goals and Objectives

Living in the Information Age is intended to provide students with a broad understanding of the social, cultural, and economic consequences of new communication technologies and to encourage critical thinking about “new media” generally. Through exams and media-related assignments, students will learn to analyze the evolving information ecology as it affects media consumers. Through course projects, students will examine issues involving digital and mobile media and the impact of new media use on consumers.

III. Required Texts & Readings

There are no textbooks for this class. Texts on this subject get dated quickly. Readings are available through the class Canvas page.
ASSIGNMENTS
Exams: There will be three one-hour exams. The exams will be equally weighted and will not be comprehensive. The tests will be multiple choice, definitions and short answer questions.

Book Review: Each undergrad student will read a recent book (one written in 2012 or after) and prepare a 3-5 page book review which provides a description of the scope of the book and analyzes its strengths and weaknesses. Graduate students are required to write a 6-8 page review on a book written 2012 or after. The book can deal with any aspect of the Internet or its components (e.g. social media, blogs) or other new media (e.g. mobile phones, IPods, video games, digital movies). The book cannot be a handbook (e.g. tips for using your IPod). Book titles must be approved in advance. You will also give a 7-10 minute oral review of the book to the class. You need to have a copy of your paper or an outline for each member of the class. A powerpoint presentation is also required. We will be picking for due dates for the oral book reports.

Final paper: Each undergraduate student will write a 7-10 page essay on any topic concerning digital or mobile media. Graduate students will write a 10-15 page essay. You need to choose a manageable topic (such as how international students use Facebook to keep in touch with friends back home) rather than a general topic such as mobile phones. A half-page description of your assignment is due at the beginning of class Thursday, Feb 2. The paper is due Tuesday, May 9 at 4:30 p.m.

Discussion questions: To make sure that you are doing the readings and to try to generate discussion, every Thursday I will ask you to turn in at the beginning of class the answer to discussion questions that I will give to you the class before. Also look at the Facebook Group Millennials and the News each Tuesday and be prepared to talk about an article that you found of interest. You don’t need to turn in anything in regard to Millennials and the News, just be ready to talk.

GRADING:
First exam ......................100 points
Second exam .................100 points
Final exam .....................100 points
Term Paper....................100 points/ graduate students 125 points
Book report.....................50 points
Discussion questions.....  50 points
Participation...............  50 points
Class participation will also be factored in. This includes talking about the discussion questions as well as general discussion during class. We also have a Facebook group Living in the Information Age (J355F Living in the Information Age) which is your place to ask questions or post things relevant material you find.

ATTENDANCE:
I will allow you three unexcused absences. After the third absence, I will deduct half a letter grade for each additional absence. You need to contact me in advance if you are going to miss a class. All tests must be taken during their scheduled time unless you have made prior arrangements. Assignments are due by 4:30 on the dates indicated, except for discussion questions that are due after the class discussion. I will deduct 10 percent for every day the assignment is late. I will not accept any papers more than a week late.

Religious Holy Days Observance Policy:
The Texas Education Code specifies that an institution of higher education shall excuse a student from attending classes or other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day, including travel for that purpose. A student whose absence is excused under this subsection may not be penalized for that absence and shall be allowed to take an examination or complete an assignment from which the student is excused within a reasonable time after the absence. A student who misses classes or other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day should inform the instructor as far in advance of the absence as possible, so arrangements can be made to complete an assignment within a reasonable time after the absence.
http://www.utexas.edu/student/Registrar/catalogs/gi03-04/ch4/ch4g.html#attendance

Students with Disabilities:
Please notify your instructor of any modification/adaptation you may require to accommodate a disability-related need. You will be requested to provide documentation to the Dean of Student's Office in order that the most appropriate accommodations can be determined. Specialized services are available on campus through Services for Students with Disabilities.
http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd/

Policy on Scholastic Dishonesty:
The University defines academic dishonesty as cheating, plagiarism, unauthorized collaboration, falsifying academic records, and any act designed to avoid participating honestly in the learning process. Scholastic dishonesty also includes, but is not limited to, providing false or misleading information to receive a postponement or an extension on a test, quiz, or other assignment, and submission of essentially the same written assignment for two courses without the prior permission of the instructor. By accepting this syllabus, you have agreed to these guidelines and must adhere to them. Scholastic dishonesty damages both the student's learning experience and readiness for the future demands of a work-career. Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University.

The Honor Code:
The core values of the University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the University is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

Cell Phones
Few things are more annoying than a cell phone going off during class, so be sure to turn them off before class. I will try to remember too. I also do not want to see them out as texting during class is distracting to me and the students around you.

Laptops
I encourage you to bring your laptops to class. I post the powerpoints online before class and I encourage you to download them and to take notes on the lectures. I cannot police you to see if you are taking notes or updating your Facebook page. Those who pay attention to class, however, perform better. If you are disrupting the class with your laptop use, you will be asked to put it away.

LECTURE TOPICS AND READING ASSIGNMENTS

Note: Dates for the exams and assignments may change depending on progress of the class. Readings should be completed before the class for which they are assigned.

Part 1: The Millennial Generation

A. Who are the Millennials?
1. Pew Internet, Millennials: Confident, Connected, Open to Change, Overview, Chapt. 4
2. Samantha Raphelson (2014, November). Amid the stereotypes, some facts about Millennials. NPR

B. The Millennial Brain

C. Millennials and the 2016 Presidential Election

Part II: Media Theories: Understanding Media Use by Millennials

A. Diffusion of Innovation Theory

B. Uses and Gratifications and Media Substitution

Part III. New Technologies, Old Technologies and Millennials

A. Millennials and news

Book Topic Due: Feb. 2
B. Millennials and Social Media

First exam: Thursday, Feb. 9

C. Millennials and Twitter

E. Millennials and mobile technology

Part IV: Dark Side of the Internet

A. Social media and Narcissism

B. Self-presentation
C. Internet Addiction, Connection Overload and Isolation

Second Exam: Thursday, March 23

C. Selective exposure and political polarization

2. Part V: Light Side of the Internet
A. Social Capital

C. Internet and Civic Engagement

Third Exam: Thursday, May 4th
Term paper assignment (Undergraduate)

Each undergraduate student will write a 7-10 page essay on any topic concerning the Internet or new media. You need to choose a manageable topic (such as how international students use Facebook to keep in touch with friends back home) rather than a general topic such as mobile phones.

The paper should have an introduction similar to a newspaper lead where you identify the main point of the paper and hopefully do it in an interesting way. Your second paragraph should be a thesis statement where you set out exactly what you will be exploring. Think of organizing it like a news story where you keep the stuff that belongs together together. But this should differ from news story in at least three ways. First, you need to rely primarily on documentary sources. These can include articles from news magazines, trade journals, research organizations or research books and research articles. Using Google Scholar through UT is a good place to find sources as is the library website (both the book section and data base section). I won’t prohibit interviews but they should be from experts, not just random students. Second, you need to use in-text citations rather than the normal attribution of a news article. I am less hung up on citation style, as long as I can look it up. Third, you need a conclusion to summarize the article.

You need to have at least five sources. Please include a cover page and do not put your name elsewhere on the paper. You need a bibliography with the sources you use. While I prefer APA style, as long as I can look up the source I am happy.

A half page description of your assignment is due Thursday, Feb. 2 by 4:30 p.m. The paper is due Tuesday, May 9 by 4:30 p.m.
Final paper (Graduate Student):

Each graduate student will write a 10-15 page essay on any topic concerning the Internet or new media. You need to choose a manageable topic (such as how international students use Facebook to keep in touch with friends back home) rather than a general topic such as mobile phones.

The paper should have an introduction similar to a newspaper lead where you identify the main point of the paper and hopefully do it in an interesting way. Your second paragraph should be a thesis statement where you set out exactly what you will be exploring. Think of organizing it like a news story where you keep the stuff that belongs together together. But this should differ from news story in at least three ways. First, you need to rely primarily on documentary sources. These can include articles from news magazines, trade journals, research organizations or research books and research articles. Using Google Scholar through UT is a good place to find sources as is the library website (both the book section and data base section). I won’t prohibit interviews but they should be from experts, not just random students. Second, you need to use in-text citations rather than the normal attribution of a news article. I am less hung up on citation style, as long as I can look it up. Third, you need a conclusion to summarize the article.

You need to have at least 10 sources. Please include a cover page and do not put your name elsewhere on the paper. You need a bibliography with the sources you use. While I prefer APA style, as long as I can look up the source I am happy.

A half page description of your assignment is due Thursday, Oct. 6 by 4:30 p.m. The paper is due Dec. 5 at 4:30.