COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course surveys scholarship on the theory, history, politics, aesthetics, and practice of alternative and activist media, including subcultural, radical, tactical, social movement, community, participatory, ethnic minority, indigenous and transnational media. The class will draw on a number of theoretical approaches to analyze these media, including communication, public sphere, social movement, political economy, and critical cultural theory. The course provides an overview of this growing subfield within media studies and addresses questions of: what constitutes alternative and activist media; what historical, contextual and technological factors shape its practices; who are its audiences; and how can we study its meaning and influence.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Define and recognize alternative/activist media artifacts and practices
Understand the political and cultural dimensions of alternative/activist media
Review/evaluate a broad range of alternative/activist media materials and practices
Contribute to a peer-based, collaborative definition of “alternative media” on Wikipedia
Conduct original research on alternative/activist media

READINGS & SCREENINGS

RECOMMENDED BOOKS

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS
1. Contribute to the Wikipedia page on “Alternative Media.” Class members will edit this page in order to improve its comprehensiveness, lead sections, subsections, style, and/or substantive content. Contributions should be made directly to Wikipedia and saved in a separate word processing file. Individuals should contribute a minimum of 300 words that are informative, concise & conform to Wikipedia policy.

2. Research Paper. Students will choose the paper topic to reflect a substantive and/or analytical issue addressed by the course. A one-page paper proposal is due on week 9 of the semester. The paper should be publication length, approximately 20 pages.

3. Class Participation/Attendance. This grade will reflect both your attendance and your contributions to class discussions. Please notify me regarding any class absences.

COURSE EVALUATION

Your final grade will be a calculated sum of the points earned on the assignments, as well as a grade for participation. Your final grade will be calculated as follows:

- Alternative media wiki: 20%
- Term Paper: 60%
- Participation: 20%

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The University defines academic dishonesty as cheating, plagiarism, unauthorized collaboration, falsifying academic records, and any act designed to avoid participating honestly in the learning process. I define plagiarism as the quoting of 5 or more words in a sequence without attribution. Scholastic dishonesty also includes, but is not limited to, providing false or misleading information to receive a postponement or an extension on a test, quiz, or other assignment, and submission of essentially the same written assignment for two courses without the prior permission of the instructor. By accepting this syllabus, you have agreed to these guidelines and must adhere to them. Scholastic dishonesty damages both the student’s learning experience and readiness for the future demands of a work-career. Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. If you are at all unclear as to the meaning of scholastic dishonesty, please visit this website: http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/sjs/acint_student.php. Any student who violates the scholastic dishonesty policy will receive an automatic “F” in the course without the possibility of a grade change. See http://catalog.utexas.edu/general-information/the-university/#universitycodeofconduct for further information.
STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. For more information, contact the Office of the Dean of Students at 471-6259, 471-4641 TTY, http://www.utexas.edu/diversity/ddce/ssd/

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS

According to UT Austin policy, you must notify me of your pending absence at least fourteen days prior to the date of observance of a religious holy day. If you must miss a class, an examination, a work assignment, or a project in order to observe a religious holy day, you will be given an opportunity to complete the missed work within a reasonable time after the absence.

EMERGENCY EVACUATIONS

Occupants of buildings on The University of Texas at Austin campus are required to evacuate buildings when a fire alarm is activated. Alarm activation or announcement requires exiting and assembling outside. Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of each classroom and building you may occupy. Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when entering the building. Students requiring assistance in evacuation shall inform their instructor in writing during the first week of class. In the event of an evacuation, follow the instruction of faculty or class instructors. Do not re-enter a building unless given instructions by the following: Austin Fire Department, The University of Texas at Austin Police Department, or Fire Prevention Services office. Behavior Concerns Advice Line (BCAL): 512-232-5050. Link to information regarding emergency evacuation routes and emergency procedures can be found at: www.utexas.edu/emergency.
